FACTUAL BACKGROUND

Defendants have committed acts of infringement in this District by, without limitation, selling and/or offering to sell the infringing products. Furthermore, Netlist is headquartered and has its principal place of business in this District, sells products in this District, and has been harmed by Defendants' conduct, business transactions

- 9. Since its founding in 2000, Netlist has been a leading innovator in high-performance memory module technologies. Netlist designs and manufactures a wide variety of high-performance products for the cloud computing, virtualization and high-performance computing (HPC) markets. Netlist's technology enables users to derive useful information from vast amounts of data in a shorter period of time. These capabilities will become increasingly valuable as the volume of data continues to dramatically increase.
- 10. The technologies disclosed and claimed in the asserted patents relate generally to memory modules. Generally speaking, a memory module is a circuit board that contains, among other important components, DRAM integrated circuits. A memory module is typically installed into a memory slot on a computer motherboard and serves as memory for that computer system. United States Patent No. 9,606,907 ("the '907 patent") relates to memory modules of a computer system, and more specifically to devices and methods for improving the performance, the memory capacity, or both, of memory modules such as dual in-line memory modules, or DIMMs. United States Patent No. 9,535,623 ("the '623 patent") relates to memory modules that operate in two distinct modes.
- 11. Server memory modules historically have been standardized by the standard-setting body for the microelectronics industry, JEDEC (Joint Electron Device Engineering Council). RDIMM is a JEDEC-standard memory module, which was first standardized in the mid-1990s. LRDIMM is a different type of memory module governed by other JEDEC standards. Specifically, JEDEC approved the initial versions of the DDR4 LRDIMM standards for the two primary components, the DDR4 RCD and DDR4 DB, in August of 2016 and November of 2016, respectively.

- Netlist has in all respects acted in a manner consistent with the JEDEC Patent Policy, as set forth in the JEDEC Manual of Organization and Procedure, which states in relevant part that "[a] license will be offered, to applicants desiring to utilize the license for the purpose of implementing the JEDEC Standard under reasonable terms and conditions that are free of any unfair discrimination...." Netlist contacted Hynix in 2015 regarding its need for a license to Netlist's patent portfolio and has since been negotiating in good faith to reach a resolution. In the course of these negotiations, Netlist offered to license the direct parents of the asserted patents to Hynix under reasonable terms and conditions that are free of any unfair discrimination over a year before bringing this action. Hynix, however, has from the beginning taken unreasonable positions and refused to attribute any meaningful value to Netlist's fundamental patent portfolio. Hynix has also launched extensive collateral attacks on Netlist and its intellectual property, filing a dozen IPRs on a number of Netlist's patents. As a result, the parties have made no progress towards resolution despite multiple substantive exchanges, over a year of negotiation, and Netlist's multiple offers to license.
- 13. In June 2016, consistent with its obligations to JEDEC, Netlist sent Hynix a formal letter outlining Netlist's offer to license Netlist's patent portfolio for DDR4 RDIMMs and LRDIMMs on reasonable terms and conditions that are free of any unfair discrimination. Netlist again identified the direct parents of the asserted patents, and informed Hynix that Hynix DDR4 RDIMMs and LRDIMMs practice these patents and additional SEP assets, which are owned by Netlist but practiced without authorization by Hynix. Hynix did not accept Netlist's reasonable, good-faith offers.

- 14. On August 31, 2016, Netlist filed suit against Defendants in the Central District of California, alleging infringement of U.S. Patent Nos. 8,756,364, 8,516,185, 8,001,434, 8,359,501, 8,689,064, and 8,489,837. Netlist, Inc. v. SK hynix Inc. et al., Case No. 8:16-cv-1605 Dkt. No. 1, Compl. (C.D. Cal. Aug. 31, 2016). U.S. Patent No. 8,516,185 is related to and shares a specification with U.S. Patent No. 9,606,907. U.S. Patent No. 8,489,837 is related to and shares a specification with U.S. Patent No. 9,535,623.
- 15. On September 1, 2016 Netlist filed a Complaint at the International Trade Commission, alleging a violation of Section 337 of the Tariff act of 1930, as amended, 19 U.S.C. § 1337, by Defendants related to the infringement of U.S. Patent Nos. 8,756,364, 8,516,185, 8,001,434, 8,359,501, 8,689,064, and 8,489,837. On September 30, 2016, the International Trade Commission instituted an investigation as to all six patents as Investigation No. 337-TA-1023, Certain Memory Modules and Components thereof, and Products Containing Same. Two of subject patents of the Inv. No. 337-TA-1023, U.S. Patent No. 8,516,185 and U.S. Patent No. 8,489,837, are the direct parents of the two patents asserted in this Complaint: U.S. Patent No. 9,606,907 and U.S. Patent No. 9,535,623, respectively.
- 16. Each of the Defendants has been aware of the parents of the asserted patents since at least January 2016 when Netlist presented to the Defendants detailed claim charts related to the parents of each of the asserted patents.
